- Managing immediate and longer-term rehabilitation of Men's Next Gen program athletes (injury assessment, treatment, and rehabilitation programs, and maintaining accurate and up to date electronic medical records)
- Aid with the packing of medical kit and extra equipment when the team travels to competition
- Collaborate in the development of appropriate Emergency Action Plan for various training environments
- Communicate effectively as part of a high performing interdisciplinary team
- Work using a collaborative approach to tackle sport specific challenges and questions
- Consult and refer specific athlete issues to relevant practitioners within the IST
- Adhere to any professional codes of conduct appropriate to your profession or other codes of conduct that might be deemed applicable to sports science and sports medicine practitioners in general
- Present workshops, lectures and seminars as required

Requirements:

- Certified Athletic Therapist in good standing with CATA or Registered Physiotherapist in good standing with provincial or territorial regulatory college
- Professional liability insurance
- Valid Sport First Responder Certification and valid CPR-HCP and/or Basic Life Support (BLS) / AED Certification
- Ability to travel and work irregular hours and weekends.

Desired Qualifications:

- Sport Physiotherapy Certificate or Diploma (SPC), FCAMPT, Acupuncture and IMS certification would be considered assets.
- 3-5+ years of experience working in a high performance sport environment (including National and International Competitions).
- Experience developing and implementing injury prevention routines for athletes
- Knowledge of the Canadian Sport System
- Excellent written and interpersonal communication skills.
- Bilingualism in Canada' official languages
- Ability to work in a time-sensitive environment with a high degree of independence and initiative.
- Good team building skills and the ability to be flexible and adjust to changing priorities
- Demonstrated knowledge of, and previous involvement within, an International/Professional sport environment
